

KANDO

Are you working with a young person in North Ayrshire aged between 14 and 19 years who could benefit from extra support?

Our new project supports young people who have become disengaged from their education.

We will support the young person by providing them with cognitive behavioural therapy before moving on to group work. Group work will focus on confidence building and working as part of a team. We will do this by:

- volunteering
- working on a community garden
- building up cookery and money management skills
- recycling and maintaining old bikes
- graduation bike ride to Millport
- ...and much more

We will support the young person to realise their potential and help ensure they are equipped with practical skills and confidence to move into a future positive destination.

If you know a young person who could do with our help, please get in touch by emailing Louise Young, Ancho's Community Support Worker at louise.young@ancho.co.uk or calling 0800 990 3405.
